CONFERENCE

This first International Maritime Human Rights Conference will focus on explicitly addressing the issue of maritime human rights and associated welfare issues throughout the maritime environment by bringing together industry, civil society and government-level leaders for discussion and debate on current issues that universally affect the human element at sea.

The event will openly tackle human rights requirements in the maritime environment. It will explore topical and emerging matters, and it will investigate human rights protections and available remedies for abuses. Undertaken by both national and international experts, the event will deliver incisive commentary and concepts to the audience for consideration and debate.

Setting out commercial, government, academic and civil society positions on the issue of maritime human rights, the speaker line up will discuss and debate the following topics:

- The need for explicit engagement with human rights at sea
- Seafarer welfare – challenges, responsibilities and the future
- The fishing community – challenges and development
- Corporate Social Responsibility and application of the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights
- Refugees, migrants, immigration and shipping
- Investigation of human rights abuses at sea.

The conference will be followed by an evening networking reception at the Royal College of Surgeons, London.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF SURGEONS

As one of the world's leading surgical institutions, the College has been based at Lincoln's Inn Fields since 1797, representing an institution at the forefront of surgical education and training and now serving as an outstanding venue for conferences, meetings and banquets. Built in 1835, the Grade II listed home was designed by Sir Charles Barry, the architect of the Houses of Parliament.

The IMHR conference will be held in the state of the art Vandervell lecture theatre – a purpose-built, air-conditioned auditorium.

Following the conference, there will be a drinks reception and canapés in the original Surgeons Library and the fascinating Hunterian Museum.

Getting there:

The College is centrally located at Lincoln's Inn Fields within easy walking distance of Holborn (Piccadilly and Central lines) and Temple (District and Circle lines) underground stations. It is a short taxi or underground journey from most major rail stations. Two NCP car parks are situated nearby.
